

Miguel Ángel García-Ramos, CFA is a very well-known professional in the financial industry worldwide, as a portfolio manager, financial analyst and lecturer in the most prestigious business schools.

He is co-founder and investment director of AFR Investing in Africa and director and head of equity research of London based Researchfy, equities research company and distribution of financial analysis platform.

Previously, he worked as an equities analyst at Estrategias de Inversion.com (Spain), as CIO-Chief Investment Officer at Lignum Capital private equity company in Madrid, during 13 years he worked as an equities mutual and pension fund portfolio manager at Bankia Fondos SGIIC (previously Gesmadrid, asset management unit of Caja Madrid, leading spanish savings bank). He has managed growth and value focused portfolios, and focused in Spanish equities, emerging markets, US stocks, European and global. Additionally, he has corporate finance experience and has prepared as a consultant debt restructuring of several companies and managed successfully one IPO.

García-Ramos has developed his own stock fundamental analysis valuation models, is an active technical analysis trader and strategy options specialist.

Furthermore, García-Ramos is well known in his local financial industry and internationally as a prestigious lecturer in leading business schools, such as IEB, CUNEF, EAE, CIFF Business School teaching several subjects (equities, portfolio management, derivatives, FX, asset allocation) and is frequently requested for regular collaboration in the financial press.

Garcia-Ramos holds a bachelor's degree in Economics, a Master in Finance from CUNEF, specialized studies programs in derivatives and technical analysis at IEB & Options and Futures Institute. He is also a CFA Charterholder and bilingual English-Spanish. Currently, he is preparing his PhD studying the financial characteristics of cryptocurrencies.